Ryan Gordon plays a pivotal role in buy- and sell-side transaction teams, having experience ranging from high-value asset sales and equity-based mergers to private equity investments. His skill set includes meticulous review of transaction documents, drafting of essential deliverables, and conducting thorough due diligence reviews.

Prior to joining the firm, Ryan developed experience working for a range of clients including private equity and venture funds, family offices, and public and private businesses. He has experience representing clients in large commercial mortgage-backed securities transactions as well as small-market reorganization and corporate governance matters.

During his time at the University of Kansas School of Law, Ryan interned for the Honorable Kevin Moriarty in the Johnson County, Kansas District Court, then served as a financial services intern at the Missouri Attorney General's Office.
